INTENSE INTEREST IN COURT DECISION

Affecting Constitutionality of
New State Dry Law—All
Local Cases Held Up

All liquor law violation cases coming before Judge G. Murray Smith, in police court Friday night, were postponed until May 5th. This was done to await decision of the Court of Appeals on the constitutionality of the new state prohibition law which has been attacked in the case of Mat Lakes from this county. This is the third postponement of several of these cases. They are piling up and when a decision from the state's highest court comes, there will be quite a docket to dispose of.

An Associated Press story from Frankfort today tells of the wide interest all over the state that this test suit has caused. The A. P. dispatch says:

Frankfort, Ky., April 22—The case of Mat Lakes against County Judge John D. Goodloe, of Madison county, in which Lakes is testing the Rash-Gullion prohibition act, passed by the 1922 General Assembly, probably is attracting more attention than any case filed in the tribunal in years. Attorneys and officials in all parts of the state have on file with Clerk Roy B. Speck, requests for telegrams and telephone messages telling them the decision of the court.

The latest development in the case is the filing of a brief amicus curiae by a firm of Harlan attorneys. These attorneys charge that the Rash-Gullion act violates several sections of the constitution of Kentucky and of the Codes of Practice for the Kentucky courts.

Lakes in his action attacks the constitutionality of the law which gives county and magistrate courts concurrent jurisdiction with circuit courts in prohibition law violations. The law also forbids possession of liquor and makes punishable with jail sentences. No defendant can get off, if convicted, with a fine alone.

A general demurrer to the action has been filed by Thomas M. McGregor, assistant attorney general, in which he declares that the petition "does not state a cause of action." A special demurrer also filed by the Attorney General challenges the jurisdiction of the Court of Appeals under the circumstances. By agreement Lakes' attorneys were given to April 21 to file their brief in the case, but already have filed it and the Attorney General was given until April 28. A temporary writ of prohibition was issued by Judge W. E. Settle on March 28.

Attorneys for Lakes are R. C. Oldham and George Ross, of Richmond and for the state Charles I. Dawson, attorney general; Joe P. Chenault, county attorney of Madison county; former Governor J. C. W. Beckham, of Louisville, and Elwood Hamilton, of Louisville.

Snider and Adkins, a firm of Harlan attorneys, have filed a writ of amicus curiae interceding in behalf of Lakes. In the petition they allege that the Rash-Gullion act violates sections 59, 141, and 142 of the constitution in that they allege it destroys the uniformity of jurisdiction of courts. It also is alleged that it violates section 51 of the constitution in that "it neither sets out, re-enacts nor refers to section 13 of the Criminal Code to which it is clearly an amendment."

Section 59 of the constitution provides that the General Assembly shall not pass any local or special acts regarding certain subjects including acts "to regulate the jurisdiction or the practice or the circuit courts of justice or the rights, powers, duties or compensation of the officers thereof; but the practice in circuit courts in continuous sessions may, by a general law, be made different from the practice of circuit courts held in terms." Section 142 states that the jurisdiction of county courts shall be uniform throughout the state and justice courts shall have equal and uniform jurisdiction. The Rash-Gullion act attorneys claim, destroys this uniformity of jurisdiction.

The brief of Lakes' attorneys, which already have been filed, states that the Court of Appeals has previously held unconstitutional any law that does not refer to the general jurisdiction of jus-

HOODOO POWDERS FAIL TO WORK

So Polly Chenault Had To Pay
$1 Fine In Court—Jess Cain
Held Over

Police court drew such a crowd Friday night that Judge G. Murray Smith adjourned its sessions to the county court room in the court house. All of the liquor law violation cases were passed, as told elsewhere awaiting action of the Court of Appeals.

Jess Cain waived examination on a charge of cutting Ollie Brown at the carnival Wednesday night. He was held without bond on account of the serious condition of Brown. Physicians report that Brown may recover if he does not contract pneumonia or have other complication arise until Monday. Cain was fined $25 and costs on a drunk charge. Attorney O. P. Jackson appeared for Cain. Judge Smith indicated he would fix bond for Cain after Brown's condition improves.

There were several interesting cases running from arguments chickens in neighbors' gardens to a youngster shooting to scare boys away who were keeping him awake, but probably the most interesting and unusual case that has appeared in police court here for a long time was the trial of Polly Chenault, colored, who was alleged to have sprinkled salt and some sort of "powders about the doorsteps of Cook Breckinridge to conjure or hoodoo him. Witnesses testified that Polly said she intended to win him away from his wife if she had to go right in and get him. The police have the powder with which the Chenault woman is alleged to have tried to conjure Breckinridge's love to her, and are undecided just what substance it is. Judge Smith couldn't think of precedents in hoodoo or witchcraft prosecution since the days of the old blue laws, so let Polly off with a fine of $1 and costs.

Justice and county courts in all cases and not alone in one kind. They point out that in 1914 the legislature sought to give county courts concurrent jurisdiction in misdemeanor cases, except in counties having circuit courts of continuous session and that the Court of Appeals held this to be unconstitutional.

In the concluding paragraph the attorneys call the law a "legislative comedy."

Requests have been received by the Clerk of the Court of Appeals for immediate information when the case is decided, from E. B. Martin, Mayfield county judge of Graves county; Sam S. Foley, Williamsburg, Whitley county clerk; John R. Evans, Clinton county attorney, and a number of others.

It is understood here that there are several dozen cases that would come under this law which are being held up pending decision of the Court of Appeals.

YOUNG GIRL A VICTIM OF TYPHOID

Nettie Mae Hisle, aged 14 years, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hisle, Jr. on the Lexington road, died Thursday after an illness of several weeks of typhoid fever. Her death was a great shock to her friends and loved ones, as it was thought by her physicians she was improving. But she suddenly relapsed and her frail body could not withstand the disease. She was a student of Madison high school and a great favorite with her teacher and classmates. Besides her parents she is survived by a sister, Anna Louise, one brother, John Hisle. Mr. and Mrs. Hisle moved to Richmond from Allen, Ky., several months ago and their host of relatives and friends deeply sympathize with them in their bereavement.

WAR MOTHERS WORK FOR STATE MEMORIAL

Mrs. Robert R. Burnam, Sr. Madison County War Mothers, has received the following letter which is self explanatory: To the War Mothers:

There will be a drive during the week of April 23-29 for a Memorial to Kentucky's heroes, who died in the world war. This is to be the State Memorial, the one reminder that the citizens of a proud state have not forgotten. Giving expression to gratitude in the form of a Memorial Hall which will be used daily by hundreds of boys and girls from all parts of the state, attending the State University at Lexington, will mean a great deal more to the youth.

The school children will undertake to raise the major part of this $300,000 but we should all be actively behind them. It is our hope that every chapter of War Mothers will enter into this actively. You have given already. Now we hope you will interesting others in giving what is far easier—money.

Yours in service,
HERBERT GRAHAM,
Campaign Manager

If the members of the Madison County Chapter of War Mothers desire to aid in this drive, subscription blanks may be found at the Madison National Bank for their use in securing pledges.

NEED NO WARRANT TO SEARCH PREMISES

Frankfort, Ky., April 22—The Anglo-Saxon doctrine that a man's home is his castle and inviolate from unwarranted search does not extend to include a remote wood lot on his farm, Justice Charles P. Moorman held in an opinion Friday, affirming the Nelson circuit court in the case of Lee Brent, who was fined $500 and sentenced to three months for moonshining.

A posse last July went to the Brent farm and found a still in his wood lot. Brent's attorney resisted the introduction of evidence concerning the finding of the still on the ground that the party was not armed with a warrant of search.

This is the first time that this point has been ruled on in the Appellate Court. Heretofore, the court had enjoined officers from search of a man's premises without a warrant and the powers of prohibition officers and others are considerably broadened by the decision.

CRISSINGER URGES SAFE INVESTMENTS

(By Associated Press)
 Gainesville, Ga., Apr. 22—A warning against the growing tendency toward speculation throughout the country as business conditions improve was sounded here today by Comptroller of the Currency Crissinger, addressing Florida bankers. He urged the bankers to advise their clients toward sound investments and use their influence "to prevent the fly-by-night schemes." He said the recent interest rate reductions are to be generally regarded by the speculative public as a sign of easy profits in sight, when it is of supreme importance that money and credit should be available to sustain the renewed business activity.

SPENT HALF HER TIME IN BED

Farmer's Wife Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman

Carter's Creek, Tenn. — "Three years ago I was almost an invalid. I spent half of my time in bed, being afflicted with a trouble which women of a certain age are apt to have. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound tablets and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a well woman now and have been for two years. I can work as well as any one who is younger and as I am a farmer's wife I have plenty to do for I cultivate my own garden, raise many chickens and do my own housework. You may publish this letter as I am ready to do anything to help other women as I have been so well and happy since my troubles are past."—Mrs. L. E. GALLOWAY, Carter's Creek, Tenn.

Most women find plenty to do. If they are upset with some female ailment and troubled with such symptoms as Mrs. Galloway had, the smallest duty seems a mountain.

If you find it hard to keep up, if you are nervous and irritable, without ambition and out of sorts generally, give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. We believe it will help you greatly, for it has helped others.

PAGAN COURTS OF CAESAR THRONED WITH BARBARIC BEAUTIES

Could you witness for a moment the barbaric beauties of the court of the ancient Rome do you think you could find comparison anywhere in the world today? Beautiful women, strong men, music and dancing everywhere. Just as they were then they are today, for in "Man-Woman-Marriage" Allen Holubar has contrasted the pagan courts of ancient Rome with the fashionable modern world. They are just two of a thousand terrific scenes in an unparalleled screen achievement.

Shall Millions Of Women Remain Unwed?

The world war left two million women in England who will never have a chance to marry and practically every nation that participated in the war finds that a shortage of males puts it in the same predicament. Various solutions to this baffling problem have been unsuccessfully offered. Children born out of wedlock have been legitimized; polygamy has been advanced in theory; the transplanting of the surplus females to other lands has been thought of, but none have been a success.

Press dispatches from England have declared that the shortage of marriageable men has produced a second and more appalling situation. Women in the mad scramble to evade spinsterhood, are said to have cultivated every possible wife to matrimonially ensnare men. Even maimed, invalids and blind are in demand for husbands.

Those who have despaired of finding a solution to this dilemma may yet find it in the matrimonial sequence of Allen Holubar's Associated First National super feature, "Man-Woman-Marriage," starring Dorothy Phillips at the local theatres on Tuesday. The Amazons, propagated a finer race of males by permitting the women to choose their mates and to have charge of the rearing of children. Men unfit to become fathers were doomed to bachelorhood and women unfit to mother posterity never married.

If such a course were pursued in England, healthy women would not feel hesitant about proposing to men.

"Exit—The Vamp"

Ethel Clayton's latest Paramount starring vehicle, "Exit—The Vamp," which will be the big feature at the local theatres on Monday next, displays photographic effects of great beauty. C. E. Schoenbaum, the photographer has made several "shots" that will evoke admiring comments from spectators. The picture is clean and wholesome and is said to be far above the average photoplay production in interest and appeal. T. Roy Barnes is leading man and heads a strong supporting cast of players.

BROOKLYN LAD WILL DRIVE MYSTERY CAR

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—Ira Vail, the Brooklyn lad who dotes on the perfume of burned castor oil, is very secretive about the car he is going to drive on Tuesday, May 30. Ira maintains that misfortune always rides with him at Indianapolis and that he is not going to tip off what car he will pilot until the last minute. Vail is built like Abraham Lincoln and does not look like he could stand a hundred miles of fast driving over the bricks but he always fools the railbirds and goes the route, usually getting a piece of money but failing to gain his cherished ambition to win one of the five centuries.

Court Says Teacher Can Remove "Answers"

Paducah, Ky., April 22—Elmer Scherer, aged 7, a student in the 2A class room at the Franklin school suddenly became an infant prodigy in the question of arithmetic. The teacher, Miss Goldye Resenthal, also discovered that all at once the percentage of correct answers to arithmetic problems became high. She investigated and found that Elmer's arithmetic had the answers to the problems in the back. The rule of the school forbids arithmetic with answers in them. Miss Rosenthal tore the offending page out of Elmer's book. She was acquitted in the McCracken county court of a charge of "intentionally taking, tearing, injuring and destroying a school book." Miss Rosenthal had offered a new book without the answers in place of the old book, but this was refused by Elmer's parents.

WILL HONOR HEROES

Commonwealth of Kentucky To Raise Funds For Memorial Building at Lexington

Commemoration of the sacrifice of Kentucky heroes in the World War will be the object of thousands of men, women and children of the State during the week of April 23-29 when they set out to raise $300,000 for a memorial building.

Names of the 3,056 who died will be placed on the bronze tablets in the building which will be used daily as a chapel and union by thousands of young people from every section of Kentucky attending the State University at Lexington. Records of Kentucky's part in the war, work of private citizens and of those in the military service, will be kept there in addition to war trophies.

An army of 150,000 school children will start out Monday, April 24, to raise one dollar each. The plan was endorsed by State Superintendent George Corbin and the Kentucky Educational Association at its annual meeting in Louisville. Superintendents, principals and teachers have been requested to assume direction of the school children's soliciting, acting as treasurer and either turning in the funds to the woman County Chairmen or sending them to State Headquarters, 210 Fifth Street, Louisville.

Governor Morrow's proclamation follows: "Those who have not forgotten the courage of the living and the glorious sacrifice of the dead; those who remember the soldiers of the great war who offered and gave themselves for us, will during the week of April 23-29 conduct throughout Kentucky a campaign to raise $300,000 for the purpose of erecting at the University of Kentucky a memorial chapel to perpetuate the lives and deeds and services of the American soldiers of the great war."

"The University of the Commonwealth is linked with the young manhood of Kentucky, and it is therefore fitting that on such a spot there should stand a memorial to the courageous youth of our State. No monument or other memorial has been erected in Kentucky for this purpose thus far. I am, therefore, confident that this appeal will reach the heart and the purse of the patriotic citizen of the State. We honor our citizen when we honor those who died for us. We make certain that the spirit of yesterday will live throughout our tomorrows if we honor courage and nobility and sacrifice."

"I, therefore, set aside the week of April 23-29 as War Memorial Week and call upon the men and women of Kentucky, the sons and daughters of the Republic, those who inherit and hold all for which the dead have died to lend their hearts and hands to the success of this campaign. The living offered and the dead gave their lives. We can give out of that which God has given to us that the memory of their deeds shall abide forever with us."

James C. Wilson, of Louisville, who was one of the most successful directors of Liberty Loan campaigns in the South, has been appointed State Chairman for this campaign.

The following poem, dedicating the Kentucky Memorial Building to the fallen heroes, winner of a state-wide contest, was written by Mrs. Eleanor Duncan Wood, of Maysville:

Dear Motherland, Kentucky, here we bring
The names of these thy sons who nobly died.
Who for Thy sake and Freedom's put aside
Young Love, and Lustly Life, and Call of Spring,
And strode down Death's dark ways adventuring.

We cannot bring them back; we cannot give
To their young eyes the joy of sunrise, nor
To eager ears that call they harkened for
The cardinal among the hills of home
They live
But in our hearts—and these are fugitive.

We shall go down to dust even as they,
So to Thy Heart, Kentucky, bring we now
These deathless names. A coronet for thy brow
Rest-loved, and Beautiful. And thou shalt pay
Unending honor till Time's latest day.

And it shall be throughout the coming years
Young hearts shall proudly read these hero-names
And feel within their own the sacred flames,
"We'll live for what they died for—spite of fears,"
So faith shall spring once more from blood and tears.

Keep safe these names; Thy sons who would not save
Themselves at price of Liberty and Thee.
The "Old Kentucky Home" shall hallowed be
Throughout the ages by the blood they gave;
Keep thou them safe, Thy Beautiful and Brave.

This poem will be on marble or bronze and placed in the Memorial Building.

There are now forty prisoners in the jail at Whitesburg and the fiscal court of the county is planning to enlarge it.
